

Review of Wound Types and Possible Referral Sources

WOUND TYPE / DIAGNOSIS	REFERRAL SOURCE
Diabetic Wounds of Lower Extremity	Primary Care, Podiatrist, Internal Medicine, Endocrinologist, General Surgeon
Post Radiation Tissue Damage/Soft Tissue Radiation Necrosis	Radiation Oncologist, Urologist, GI, Gynecologist, General Surgeon, PC and IM
Osteo-Radio Necrosis (ORN)	Oral Maxillofacial Surgeon, Dentist, Radiation Oncologist, Orthopedic Surgeon, General Surgeon
Chronic Refractory Osteomyelitis	Primary Care, Orthopedic Surgeon, Infectious Disease, Physiatrist, General Surgeon
Failed Flap and Grafts	Plastic Surgeon, Gynecologist, Orthopedic Surgeon, General Surgeon, Cardio, Vasc Surgeon
Venous Stasis	Vascular/General Surgeon, Cardiologist, Primary Care, General Surgeon, Rheumatologist, CardioVasc Surgeon
Pressure Ulcers	Primary Care, Gerontologist, Physiatrist, Nursing Home, Home Health, General Surgeon, Rheumatologist, Internal Medicine, CV Surgeon
Post-Surgical/De-hisced Wounds	Primary Care, GI Surgeon, Vascular Surgeon, General Surgeon, Gyn, OB/GYN
Crush Injury	Emergency Medicine, Orthopedic Surgeon, Internal Medicine, General Surgeon
Necrotizing Infections (i.e., Gas Gangrene, Recluse Spider Bite, Flesh Eating Bacteria)	Infectious Disease, Podiatrist, Orthopedic Surgeon, General Surgeon, Emergency Medicine
Carbon Monoxide Poisoning	Emergency Medicine, Primary Care, Neurologist, EMS